CITY REJOICES IN 'SOFT' WELL WATER

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS LAUDS NEW SAND POINT FLUID.

MEANS BETTER AQUA AT LESS EXPENSE, BELIEF

Ironless Near-Surface Supply on East Side of River May Supplant Present "Hard" Variety.

At last Maryville is to have a pure, "soft" well water through the municipal water plant mains, it is believed, and at no more and probably less expense than the other brand of water. For a sand point well, which has been opened up on the east side of the river as a test, has proven that there is all the difference possible between the sand point water on this side and the brand found on the other side of the river.

While Maryville has been drinking sand point water for several months, instead of river water, it has first been necessary to aerate the water at the plant before pumping it to the reservoir up town. This necessitates two distinct pumpings, just as when it is gathered from the 102 river, taking both time and money in the process.

Even then a certain amount of iron remains and rusts the pipes and stains enamel bath tubs and lavatory basins, besides making it hard to wash clothes in the water, because of its "hardness."

Would Be Financial Saving.

But when you take one sup of the water found about twenty feet down on the east side of the river, directly across from the water plant, you are tasting an entirely different brand of aqua.

It will necessitate the laying of a main across the river to get the water, of course, but when it is considered that by the use of the new found water only one pumping will be necessary, the financial saving is quickly conceivable.

So after a few more tests are made, it is the intention of the board of public works, to order the laying of a main to the other side of the river and to install several sand point wells there, using the ten on this side merely as an emergency supply.

Wabash Is Finishing Improvement Work

CUTTING THROUGH NORMAL HILL

The improvement work on the Wabash here which has been under way the last few months, is now nearing completion. In fact the trestle has already been supplanted with a fill requiring 50,000 cubic yards of earth, while the Normal hill grade has been reduced by nearly half, or will be by the end of this week.

There then remains much to be done by the Wabash itself though. The passenger station platform must be lowered a foot or more, the west switch track must be lowered and changed somewhat and the main line from the station west to near the public road, west of the Normal grounds must be relaid on its new bed.

But the work of the Bridgeton Construction Company of St. Louis in cutting the Normal hill and making the fill will be finished within a day or two it is said. This part of the work has been under the personal charge of Charles Clarke and Charles Jackson, who are stockholders in the Bridgeton Construction Company.

The improvement work also has been supervised by Edward Gill of Moberly, assistant engineer for this division of the Wabash. He will remain until all changes are made, which will probably be two weeks. It is intended to entirely complete the fill in the northeast part of the city next spring, thereby allowing the present dirt there to settle well.

When the track is relaid from the station west past the Normal, the grade will be but .64 instead of 1.35 as formerly.

The picture used in connection with this story shows the big steam shovel at work in cutting down the bed on which the main line track formerly rested in its shoot through the Normal hill. The locomotive shown in the picture conveys the loaded dirt cars from the Normal hill to the trestle work, where the dirt is dumped.

For the sake of letting the "sucker" down as easily as possible however no names will be mentioned. A few concession men at the fair also fell for the smooth talk of a stranger representing himself to be an internal revenue collector.

Dr. Lowe's lecture will have to do particularly with the present situation under the rule of the new republic He arrived in China just after the Boxer uprisings and his lecture will begin with the work at that time and will briefly take in the entire trip from the time the missionary left San Francisco until the present. The illustrations will also include scenes through Japan and a trip through Manchuria made on the trans-Siberia railroad as far north as Harbin.

Washington, Sept. 7.—U. S. Consul Frost of Queenstown has cabled the state department that the Hesperian was torpedoed. He said that steel fragments on the ship proved that undoubtedly.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—The sinking of the Hesperian probably will not cause additional complications between the United States and Germany. Secretary of State Lansing has received a long report, but not conclusive that the vessel was torpedoed.

The fact that it was armed also enters into the discussion.

London, Sept. 7.—It is announced that all except thirteen passengers and four members of the crew of the Allan liner Hesperian, which sunk yesterday, has been accounted for.

A fund with which to pay the county license of $100 and to pay for a site on which the show tents may be installed, has been secured, by the entertainment committee of the Commercial Club.

Maryville has been neglected by the big shows for ten years.

TRACTORS AND MULES.

A western agricultural paper reports a conversation with an Illinois farmer, who says that his new farm tractor does the work of ten mules. He adds that it saves an hour a day in chores, a great deal in feed, and relieves him, besides, of the painful necessity of hurrying weary animals when the season is rushing.

All of which is true, and doubtless the farmer might have added that his tractor is enabling him to plow deeper than he ever plowed before. Yet the chief value of this testimony is to show what Henry Ford is likely to accomplish when he gets on the market his tractor adopted to small farms.

The man quoted above has 460 acres of ground, and his machine dispensed with ten mules or horses. The Ford machine, if it comes through according to advance notices, will suit the man with from eighty to 240 acres of ground, and take the place of three or four horses. This light, cheap, adaptable tractor will meet the needs of twenty men where the heavier motor supplies one.

The light farm tractor should double the real productiveness of American farms in a single generation. It will save for human use immense areas now devoted to producting horse feed it will permit and encourage deeper and earlier plowing, it will give the farmer more complete mastery of his work than he ever has enjoyed before. Success to it.—Chicago Journal.

The program for the annual meeting of the Missouri Press association, at St. Joseph, September 16 and 17, has been completed. President H. S. Sturgis of Neosho, the other officers, the Commercial Club and other civic business organizations in St. Joseph have planned "features" galore.

It is planned for the newspapermen and their families to meet in Kansas City September 16, and go to St. Joseph by interurban trolley cars. On the afternoon of the opening day, guests will be taken to Lake Contrary, where a luncheon will be served by the St. Joseph Press Club.

Motor tours and social events are scheduled for the second day. The big feature will be a banquet at the Robidoux Hotel.

The reunion will attract politicians from all over the state. The organization is nonpartisan, but political aspirants of both the dominant parties will start booms.

CATTLE AND HOGS IN RISE

Kansas City Market Strengthens Past Week Except on Sheep Which Make Big Drop.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Kansas City, Sept. 6.—Corn fed cattle advanced 10 to 15 cents last week, and it was evident that buyers needed good cattle. The strong prospects were realized today, when a drove of heavy steers, 1,500 pounds average, sold at $10.10, highest price in several weeks.

Total supply today is 17,000 head, several thousand less than were expected, the decrease partly due to Labor day holiday influence, and partly to disappointing market on medium and half fat cattle last week. The market on medium cattle today is about steady, wtih a sign of strength.

Stockers and feeders are strong today, a good many buyers here. Kansas shippers are holding cattle back, endeavoring to get better weights on them, the heavy cattle not having gained much on grass this year as usual, and there is some hope for better prices also.

It is even possible that a certain percentage of the Kansas pasture cattle will not come to market at all off the grass, but will go on feed for a time, as there will be a good deal of corn in Kansas this year. The market is in the hands of the shippers to a greater extent than usual this season.

Medium grades of fed steers are steady and sell at $8.25 to $9.25, Kansas pasture steers of good weights at $7.75 to $8.75, light steers $7 to $7.50, grass cows $5.50 to $6.50, stock steers $6.50 to $7.75, a few up to $8.35, feeders at $6.75 to $7.50, a few up to $8.25. Quarantine receipts are only 10 cars today, all mixed stock.

Quarantine steers are selling at $5.75 to $7.75 cows $4.50 to $5.75, veal calves $7.50 to $10.25.

Hogs, the top was $7.90, 20 cents above the best price last week, and bulk of sales $7.25 to $7.80, 10 to 15 cents higher than any day for some weeks. Packers are in need of hogs, and paid $7.75.

Heavy hogs brought $7.25 to $7.60 largely. Receipts were 5,000 head, and the supply has been running lighter than usual for a week. The market here is being maintained on a level several points above other western markets.

Killing grades of sheep and lambs declined 25 to 50 cents last week, feeders and breeders holding steady. The supply is 16,000 today, market 5 lower on killers, 10 higher on feeders. Top western lambs brought $8.55, and native spring lambs to killers ranged from $8.15 to $8.50.

Five cars of Utah feeding lambs, 60 pounds average, sold at $8.45, other feeders $8.35 and $8.40, feeding ewes $5 to $5.25, breeding ewes $5.50 to $6.75, a few choice breeding ewes up to $7.50, and one lot of fancy black face two year old breeders last week, 99 pounds average, at $7.65. Plenty of feeding and breeding stock will be offered here from now on.

PLAIN JAPANESE AT CORONATION

Persons Outside Court to Witness Mikado Take Throne.

AN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

Precedent of Twenty-five Centuries Will Be Broken by a Public Function—New Emperor Will Eat Sacred Rice Sown, Tended and Harvested by Virgins.

Tokyo.—For the first time in the history of the Japanese empire, extending over 2,500 years, an emperor is to accede to the throne in the presence of representatives of his people. That is why the coronation of Emperor Yoshihito on Nov. 19 is regarded as a supreme event in Japanese national life and why it is looked forward to with such eagerness and delight by the emperor's subjects.

Strictly speaking, the ceremony is not a coronation, but an accession. The rulers of Nippon wear no crown, but in the presence of the spirits of their ancestors they formally accede to the dignity and prerogatives of emperorship. However, the coming great event is usually referred to as the coronation.

The empress expects to become a mother about that time. The emperor doubtless will go alone to Kioto with great pomp, carrying with him in a specially constructed train of exquisite workmanship and decoration the three sacred treasures which symbolize the authority and power of the throne—the sacred mirror, the sacred sword and the comma shaped jewel.

Religious services will be held in the Shunkyoden temple, where the gorgeous throne will be placed and where will be witnessed a rare spectacle of court nobles and priests in the ancient, picturesque ceremonial robes. The foreign representatives will be ushered to their seats by the sound of flutes and drums. The doors of the sanctuary where the sacred mirror is placed will be opened and offerings spread before the altar. Then the emperor, preceded by the lord chamberlain and minister of the household carrying the sword and gem, will enter, followed by the princes of the blood, ministers of state and the members of the coronation commission. After a moment of silence the emperor will go to the altar and read an address proclaiming to the spirits of his ancestors that he has received the sacred treasures and that he then and there ascends the throne, the seat of the "Son of Heaven." The princes and princesses of the blood and other Japanese in their turn will pay homage.

At the second ceremony, to be held in the Shishiiden palace, Emperor Yoshihito will announce to his subjects his accession to the throne. Members of both houses, local governors and other persons representing the people, will be present at this function, as well as the members of the diplomatic corps. In striking contradistinction to the last coronation, which was conducted entirely and exclusively in the presence of the court, in the coming ceremonies not only the people and representatives of foreign powers, but even a delegation of chiefs from the native tribes of Formosa will be present. This last is the idea of Premier Okuma, who wishes, while preserving the dignity and sanctity of the ceremonies, to bring in the note of democracy and popular representation.

The Daijosai or thanksgiving festivals, will take place in the Daij temples. There are two—the Yuki temple, dedicated to the deities of heaven, and the Suki, dedicated to the deities of earth. In these sacred precincts the emperor, alone and unseen, will eat of the sacred rice, sown, tended and harvested by virgins in the eastern and western provinces. In each case the emperor will bathe in sacred water, after which, donning special robes, he will pray successively before the heavenly and earthly deities, offering up thanks for his glorious and happy accession.

MAY IRWIN BACKS WILSON.

Wants Cabinet Post to Laugh His Detractors Out of Court.

New York.—May Irwin fills no position in President Wilson's cabinet, which precludes her reprimanding those she thinks talk too much, but as a suffragist who campaigned ardently for the presideut she feels privileged to stand up for him. So she sent a letter to President Wilson which said, among other things:

"In these times, when our beloved country is facing the most crucial problems of its history, you have shown yourself as great a patriot and statesman as ever held the executive office.

"But as usual there are some agitators and self seekers who for the sake of notoriety are attempting to handicap the work of the president, even to the extent of hurling this nation into the bloodiest war of all history. I am only a humble almost citizen, but I think it the duty of every woman, child or man to encourage you with a direct approval of your course; hence this letter.

"I would like to see a new department added to the government, to be known as the department of laughter. The function of it should be to laugh out of court these fools and self seekers, these pests and jingoes who are trying to annoy you in your work. The rulers of old had their Sir Morleys and jesters for just such a purpose. I respectfully apply for the portfolio of this department on the supposition that I know a good laugh when I see one."

Up to the hour of going to press the good submarine Oyster Bay had not even shown its periscope preparatory to firing an answering broadside.

FEW LEFT IN SHAKERTOWN.

Only Four Remain In Wealthy Kentucky Settlement.

Lexington, Ky.—Four elderly and infirm persons are the only occupants of the immensely valuable Shaker settlement, one of the few remaining colonies of the sect, near here. Sisters Christine Johnson, eighty-four, and Martha Olson, eighty-seven, died one day recently within the hour.

Shakertown, now so sparsely settled, once was a flourishing town, with manufactories and various business enterprises and controlling rich adjacent farm lands.

Even now the property is valued at millions. Recently a trustee was appointed to manage the affairs of the colonists.

ORVILLE WRIGHT TO QUIT THE WORKSHOP

Aeroplane Inventor Will Devote Life to Research Work.

Dayton, O.—Orville Wright, the aeroplane inventor and manufacturer, is to devote his life to research work, giving up his business interests.

The inventor for years has had the ambition to develop and amplify his research work, but since the death of his brother Wilbur several years ago his time has been taken up almost entirely by the management of his business and patent litigation. In the last week two offers have been made for the Wright holdings here, but without success.

Mr. Wright refused to make public any offers he has received, but Dayton bankers say substantial sums and credits were concerned.

"I cannot say now how soon this change will come about or give any details of how or why it will be made," said Mr. Wright.

It is said Mr. Wright's health is poor and he is in a nervous condition. Confronted with this as a possible motive for selling the plant, he still refused to reveal his intentions further.

"I never was interested especially in the business end of it," said Mr. Wright. "I am not averse to making money from it. But that is not what I am striving for.

"My patent litigation is going favorably, both in the United States and abroad. The court of appeals has sustained the decision of lower courts in every instance, and there is a little further work along those lines.

"I have not gone into the war game as other aeroplane manufacturers have. The trouble has been in getting a high powered aeroplane motor that is reliable. They are pretty delicate things, but I am working on a new 120 horsepower engine which I have not put on the market."

Concerning the New York newspaper story in which it was said the German government held an option on the Wright plant, Mr. Wright had an explanation to make.

"The story is an untruth. I know that it was based merely on a suggestion that the German government get an option on this company. Some one thought it would be a good scheme for the Germans to buy the Wright company and prevent other countries from getting any machines. A letter to that effect was written to the German consul at New York, and from that source the story emanated."

Bees Rout Workers.

Hammond, Ind.—The icing gang in the Indiana harbor belt yards at Riverdale was driven from the Pacific fruit express by bees, and the train was held up on the way to New York. The swarm had "homed" in the lining of a refrigerator car. The bees could not be dislodged and went on with the train.

The visitors lost the first contest 6 to 5 in ten innings. The new champions have headed the Western league since the middle of last June with the exception of one day in August when Denver occupied first place.

CLINTON IS NOW "DRY."

Rich Hill Only "Wet" Town in Sixth District.—It Follows Jan. 1.

Clinton is the latest Missouri town to go "dry." It "went" that way Saturday night. The town voted "dry" by a majority of 236 votes at a special election July 23. Twice before within the last ten years the "dry" sentiment was nullified at the polls.

The only remaining saloon in the Sixth Congressional District is in Rich Hill, and that, too, will close its doors January 1, pursuant to the will of the voters, expressed by a majority of ninety at the polls last Wednesday. The Sixth District is composed of Henry, Johnson, Cass, Bates, Cedar, Dade and St. Clair counties.

Mr. Carl Murren,
Maryville, Mo.

Dear Sir: We manage to get some fun out of paint. J. H. Kohlmeyer, Grove City, Pa, put-in Devoe. Along came a salesman of somebody else's paint before ours had got there. Salesman said ours was short-measure. Kohlmeyer weakened, hung-fire and flopped; stopped ours and took his.

It was our turn now. We emptied our can into his and his into ours. The short-measure was his, not ours; and we kept our man.

And, ever since then, that paint-manufacturer gives full-measure; his paint is not pure, but his gallon contains four quarts.

Go by the name; and the name to go by is Devoe lead-and-zinc.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO.,
New York, Chicago and Kansas City.

P. S.—Koch's Pharmacy sells our paint.

W. D. McDowell of Kansas City, was here last week to visit his sister, Mrs. George Cox and family, northwest of Maryville and to also visit the fair.

Taking Care of Friendship.

"We take care of our health, we lay up money, we make our roof tight and our clothing sufficient, but who provides wisely that we shall not be wanting in the best property of all—friends?" asks Emerson.

"It was such a trifle," sighed a woman, referring to an estrangment from a friend of girlhood days, "yet it led to the bitterest quarrel. The friendship we had cherished since childhood was severed in a moment by a few hasty words over a subject which did not matter vitally to either of us. We were too angry then to see how slight the matter was, to realize the consequences. Neither of us was willing to acknowledge at the time that she was at fault, so the rift widened and, although we meet and treat each other politely, the old sweet friendship of years has gone forever. No one knows how deeply I regret it."

Friendships die of neglect, as well as by violence. It is well known that we fail to appreciate our blessings until we lose them. How often is this so with friendships? We do not miss them until the dear old friends have left us. We do not realize their loss and our loneliness until it is too late.

For close, heart-to-heart friends, there must be effort on the part of each to keep up the old friendship amid the changes of the passing years. Friendship is a twofold affair. It cannot be maintained by one alone. There must be effort, reciprocation on the part of each.—The Continent.

STARVE THE HESSIAN

Here is a receipe for putting the Hessian fly out of business that is guaranteed by the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri to be as effective as it is simple.

1. Bury the flies.—Plow soon after harvest as deeply as conditions will permit. Most of the insects are now in the flaxseed or resting stage, down at the crown of the old wheat plants between the leaf sheath and the stalk. Plowing will destroy them. A harow or dics should follow the plow to compact the soil.

2. Destroy the Volunteer Wheat.—Cultivate the plowed ground during the late summer and early fall to destroy the volunteer wheat and weeds. Volunteer wheat provides breeding and feeding grounds for the full crop of flies. Keep it down and avoid one common source of fly infestation.

3. Sow On or Soon After Fly-Free Date.—Sow the wheat just as late as advisable to have it up and established before winter. Prepare the seed bed thoroughly and when this is done the wheat may be sown much later without danger from winter killing. The fly free date or dates of safe sowing are approximately as follows: For the northern third of Missouri, October 1; for the central third of the state, October 8, and for the southern third, October 16. It will be noticed that the dates of safe sowing become later as we go southward. Farmers should therefore make their wheat sowings conform as nearly as possible to the dates suited to their locations in the different parts of the state.

4. Get Your Neighbors to Cooperate. Cooperation is essential especially during bad fly years. If one negligent or careless farmer sows his wheat early or fails to destroy the volunteer wheat, he may have enough flies in his wheat next spring to not only destroy his own wheat crop, but to also destroy the wheat crops of all his neighbors, although they may have practiced all the remedies mentioned above.

The Jewish New Year, the "Rosh Hashana," will be celebrated by the Orthodox Jewish people, starting tomorrow at sundown and continuing until Friday night. This is one of the most important of the Hebrew festivals.

The day that the Jews celebrate their fiscal New Year comes in April. Another day, corresponding somewhat to the American Arbor day, is celebrated the latter part of February. The beginning of the weather year comes in October. These ceremonies are carried out as nearly like they were in the ancient days as possible.

"Catching" Tuberculosis, or Infection.

TO the man who works for his living, falling sick with tuberculosis means a very real danger not only to his own life but to the lives of his wife and children as well. His wealthier neighbor may lay aside his routine cares and "take the cure" for tuberculosis without materially affecting his family's health or income. The consumptive workingman, on the other hand, must give up his job and with it his only income, and at the same time he is frequently compelled to remain at home, a constant source of danger to his family, unless he is properly instructed. It may save you who read this article considerable money and suffering if you learn from it how to avoid the entrance of tuberculosis into your body.

Tuberculosis is infectious and communicable from one person to another. It differs in some respects from scarlet fever, measles, or smallpox, so-called "contagious" diseases, in that tuberculosis requires repeated exposures and certain special conditions to pass the germs from the sick to the well. It is not inherited, but must be communicated through one of the following sources from one person to another:

(1) The infection is derived in the very large majority of cases from the sputum discharged from "open" or ulcerating tubercles in the lungs.

(2) A certain number of persons, chiefly infants, estimated variously from one to ten per cent. of all cases, receive the infection from the milk of tuberculous cows.

(3) A very few others may possibly obtain the infection from the urine and fecal discharges of consumptives or from the pus joints or other parts of the body which are the seat of ulcerating tuberculosis.

(4) In a few extremely rare instances the infection is conveyed through the blood of the mother to an unborn child, but the offspring seldom survive long.

(5) No infection can be conveyed from tuberculosis of the "closed" or non-ulcerated variety, or after ulcerations are completedly healed.

With regard to the manner of infection, still bearing in mind that tuberculosis must be communicated from one person to another, we find that by far the most frequent mode of infection is by inhalation; the second is by swallowing, and the least common, by inoculation of a wound or abrasion. Considering each of these modes of infection a little more carefully, we learn that:

(1) The baccilli are inhaled most often in dust. The dust is most often contaminated by careless spitting; but the germs may also be given out in the act of coughing (with the mouth unprotected) or hawking, sneezing, loud talking, singing or laughing. Quiet breathing carries no infection.

(2) The baccilli may be swallowed with food which has been contaminated with infected hands or otherwise, and also with the milk, butter and other dairy products derived from cows suffering from bovine tuberculosis.

(3) Inoculation by the infection of cuts, scratches, or abrasions is not frequently observed.

While no age, race, or class is immune against infection from tuberculosis, children are more susceptible than anyone else. At the age of 15, frequently as high as 75 per cent. of the population may show the presence of the germs, though not that many may be sick with tuberculosis. In view, however, of the fact that these germs may lay quiet in the body of the child for years, until with unfavorable surroundings his resistance is lowered, causing the disease to develop, it is extremely important that fathers and mothers do everything possible to keep their children away from danger of infection in their earlier years.

Everything should be done at home to keep the child rugged and healthy. The father and mother, whether they have tuberculosis or not, should be scrupulosly careful in their habits of spitting and person hygiene. The working father owes it not only to his own health, but to that of his children to avoid tuberculosis in every possible way.

STRIKING GAINS IN CHILD LABOR LAWS

Off Year For Legislation, but Children Not Neglected.

EDUCATION LAWS IN SOUTH.

A new compilation of child labor laws which will be issued shortly by the National Child Labor Committee contains the legislation enacted in 1915. Although this last year was a reactionary one for social welfare legislation, the National Child Labor Committee feels that there were some striking gains in child labor laws.

Two states which have hitherto defied all efforts to raise their standards—Pennsylvania and Alabama—have yielded to the pressure of public opinion. Alabama has a fourteen year limit for all gainful occupations, to go into effect in September, 1916, instead of her former twelve year limit for factories only. A sixteen year limit for dangerous occupations is included in the law, as well as a twelve year limit for boys and an eighteen year limit for girls in street work.

The striking feature of Pennsylvania's new law is the continuation school clause, which requires children of fourteen and fifteen who are regularly employed to attend continuation schools eight hours a week. Other important features are the twenty-one year limit for night messengers, physical examination and the completion of the sixth grade before a work permit can be secured, and the regulation of street work.

Michigan had an unusual experience. The age limit for common gainful occupations was raised from fourteen to fifteen AT THE REQUEST OF THE EMPLOYERS. The bill was drafted and the campaign directed by them. In addition to raising the age limit, it raises the grade which a child must complete before a work permit can be secured from the fourth to the sixth grade.

Compulsory education laws were passed by three southern states. The Florida and South Carolina laws are local option only, but the Texas law is state wide.

California and Iowa strengthened their laws by including provisions for the regulation of street work and the night messenger service. In addition to the street work clause Iowa passed an eight hour day for children under sixteen and strengthened her work permit provisions. A written statement from the employer, saying that he intends to employ the child, is now necessary before a child can secure a work permit. A similar clause was incorporated this year in the Rhode Island law and a street work provision enacted establishing a twelve year limit for boys and a sixteen year limit for girls engaged in selling newspapers or merchandise.

Nevada created the office of labor commissioner to enforce the child labor law, and Wyoming enacted a nine hour day for children under fourteen in all gainful occupations. In fact, there was a gain in every state but one of those which passed laws this year affecting children. Tennessee weakened its law by exempting counties from practically all provisions of the law. But an attempt to repeal the Arkansas law was defeated, so that, on the whole, the National Child Labor Committee feels that the child labor legislation of 1915 represents steady progress.

VI.—F. C. Howe

On The Advantages of Free Ports

Mr. F. C. Howe, Federal Commissioner of Immigration, who is one of the best American authorities on marine commerce, in discussing the relation of free ports to the development of sea trade said in part:

"Ships will go hundreds of miles out of their way to avoid ports surrounded by a tariff wall. The only way, therefore, for a country with a tariff to compete in the shipping world with a free trade country is to establish free ports at strategical points along its coast line. Germany has done so, and in a comparatively short period has built up a carrying trade which before the war was seriously threatening England's supremacy. Hamburg, one of the three German free ports, now ranks as the second greatest seaport in the world, its total foreign commerce in 1913 being only $6,000,000 under that of New York.

The free port would offer great opportunity for financial operations, now made possible by the recent currency act. It would stimulate international banking, and would tend to shift the financial center of the world to this country. And America, by the logic of events, has become the natural center for the world's financing, just as London became that center several centuries ago, when it shifted from the cities of the Netherlands. But the financial center will only move to this country when it becomes a clearing house of goods as well as of money. For credit the world over is created by currently created wealth in transit or change so that even our financial expansion is dependent upon the opening up of American ports to the clearance of the wealth of the world. A port should not operate to yield a return on the investment, but to develop the prosperity of the country." In recapitulating the advantages, Mr. Howe brings out the importance of the free port in developing our shipping, and linking us with South America, Asia and Africa, and then concludes:

"The most important gain is the direct gain to America. It will cheapen commodities by bringing great quantities of goods to our doors for importation or export, as trade needs demand. It will stimulate the growth of exporting houses, which can hold goods for an indefinite period without the payment of tariff dues (often equal to the cost of the article itself) for disposal to meet the trade demands of the whole world. It will upbuild international credit, and shift to America an increasing and ultimately a predominant share in international exchange.

Finally, America is the natural country to be the counter of the world. Its seacoasts face every other continent; it is the greatest of all reservoirs of raw materials and foodstuffs. In iron and steel and standardized production it is in a position to compete with the world. But international trade (and this is always overlooked) must be reciprocal. It cannot be one-sided, and credit balances cannot for any prolonged period be paid in gold. They can only be paid by exchange of wealth."

FLASH NEWS TO FAROFF SAILORS

Uncle Sam's Boys Find Joy In Baseball Scores.

VIA THE NAVAL WIRELESS.

Secretary Daniels Arranges For 200 Word Message Every Evening to Warships In West Indies—Captain Bullard, Superintendent of Naval Radio Service, Conceived the Idea.

Washington.—Even the oldest inhabitant of Port-au-Prince, Haiti, can't remember the time before now when the Haitian tropics received the baseball scores every evening.

Somehow one doesn't associate the thought of the blue Caribbean and scorching semi-equatorial sunshine with the thought of "New York, 4; Pittsburgh, 6." But it's an actual fact, just the same.

Not only baseball scores, but the latest word about the kaiser and the war and William Jennings Bryan's latest opinion penetrate the tropical evenings. The officers and men of Uncle Sam's warships in West Indian waters are now able to learn of the things going on at home and abroad.

Secretary Daniels worked the scheme through the innate patriotism of a telegraph company and a big press association. Let there be no more talk of soulless corporations, says the navy.

Every night the day's news is boiled down to 200 words—just as it should be, some one says—and is telegraphed to the naval wireless station at Key West, Fla. Then the wireless sparks begin to jump, and out over the gulf, the Caribbean and the south Atlantic flashes the news "from home."

Captain W. H. G. Bullard, superintendent of the naval radio service, is the man who conceived the idea, and through his suggestion Secretary Daniels obtained the co-operation of the news agency and the telegraph company. Only officers and sailors who are thousands of miles from home, in strange waters by strange shores, can fully appreciate the value of a service of this kind.

The men are more interested in the baseball scores of the National and American leagues than in any other point of the day's news. The latest boiler explosion west of Pittsburgh, however, gets their avid interest.

The naval radio service looks upon the idea as a great development of its resources. For several years the service has been sending out the official Washington time through the Arlington (Va.) station and the radio station at Darien, in the canal zone. This time flash has been sent broadcast over the continental United States, neighboring waters and distant American dependencies.

Not long ago some 300 jewelers informed Secretary Daniels that they had equipped themselves with radio apparatus just to catch this twice daily time flash from Washington. Time signals are said to be of immense benefit to vessels on the high seas, which now possess for the first time an accurate means of checking their chronometers, which is of the greatest help in fixing longitude.

As soon as the new wireless section in the Philippines is completed it is believed that an interchange of messages between the Philippines and the United States can be made in thirty minutes.

The news bulletin service is regarded as of still greater importance as an advance in the naval radio service. It contrasts strongly, old officers say, with the methods of only thirty years ago, when naval vessels on distant duty never got news from home except when the relief vessel arrived and they received orders to go home and freshen up on events.

CITY REJOICES IN 'SOFT' WELL WATER

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS LAUDS NEW SAND POINT FLUID.

MEANS BETTER AQUA AT LESS EXPENSE, BELIEF

Ironless Near-Surface Supply on East Side of River May Supplant Present "Hard" Variety.

At last Maryville is to have a pure, "soft" well water through the municipal water plant mains, it is believed, and at no more and probably less expense than the other brand of water. For a sand point well, which has been opened up on the east side of the river as a test, has proven that there is all the difference possible between the sand point water on this side and the brand found on the other side of the river.

While Maryville has been drinking sand point water for several months, instead of river water, it has first been necessary to aerate the water at the plant before pumping it to the reservoir up town. This necessitates two distinct pumpings, just as when it is gathered from the 102 river, taking both time and money in the process.

Even then a certain amount of iron remains and rusts the pipes and stains enamel bath tubs and lavatory basins, besides making it hard to wash clothes in the water, because of its "hardness."

Would Be Financial Saving.

But when you take one sup of the water found about twenty feet down on the east side of the river, directly across from the water plant, you are tasting an entirely different brand of aqua.

It will necessitate the laying of a main across the river to get the water, of course, but when it is considered that by the use of the new found water only one pumping will be necessary, the financial saving is quickly conceivable.

So after a few more tests are made, it is the intention of the board of public works, to order the laying of a main to the other side of the river and to install several sand point wells there, using the ten on this side merely as an emergency supply.

TO MAKE CHANGE THIS WEEK

The Rev. R. C. Holliday Conducts the Buchanan Street Methodist Services Sunday.

Mr. Holliday went from the Chillicothe conference to Huntsville to visit until tomorrow night with his mother and sister.

The Rev. Alfred Snowden, who succeeds Mr. Holliday at Elmo, comes from the Julian and Downs churches in Nebraska, to this conference district

The Rev. L. M. Kirby, pastor at Guilford, and Mrs. Kirby are visiting today with the Hubbard family here. Mr. Kirby succeeds Mr. Snowden at Julian and Downs.

The Rev. J. D. Randolph, whom Mr. Hubbard succeeded, was returned to Fayette, Mo., as pastor of the Central Methodist church. The Rev. W. J. Parvin who was pastor of the Buchanan Street church before Mr. Randolph came, was selected as presiding elder of the St. Charles district, while the Rev. Paul H. Linn, pastor here before Mr. Parvin, became president of the Central Female College at Fayette.

Wabash Is Finishing Improvement Work

CUTTING THROUGH NORMAL HILL.

The improvement work on the Wabash here which has been under way the last few months, is now nearing completion. In fact the trestle has already been supplanted with a fill requiring 50,000 cubic yards of earth, while the Normal hill grade has been reduced by nearly half, or will be by the end of this week.

There then remains much to be done by the Wabash itself though. The passenger station platform must be lowered a foot or more, the west switch track must be lowered and changed somewhat and the main line from the station west to near the public road, west of the Normal grounds must be relaid on its new bed.

But the work of the Bridgeton Construction Company of St. Louis in cutting the Normal hill and making the fill will be finished within a day or two it is said. This part of the work has been under the personal charge of Charles Clarke and Charles Jackson, who are stockholders in the Bridgeton Construction Company.

The improvement work also has been supervised by Edward Gill of Moberly, assistant engineer for this division of the Wabash. He will remain until all changes are made, which will probably be two weeks. It is intended to entirely complete the fill in the northeast part of the city next spring, thereby allowing the present dirt there to settle well.

When the track is relaid from the station west past the Normal, the grade will be but .64 instead of 1.35 as formerly.

The picture used in connection with this story shows the big steam shovel at work in cutting down the bed on which the main line track formerly rested in its shoot through the Normal hill. The locomotive shown in the picture conveys the loaded dirt cars from the Normal hill to the trestle work, where the dirt is dumped.

Petrograd Says Invaders Have Spent Strength.—Slavs "Buckle Up" for Fray.—Reports Conflict.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Berlin, Sept. 7.—It is announced that the retreating Russians have been over taken. A great conflict is now raging near Wolkowysk, forty miles southeast of Grodno.

The fighting extends nearly to Slonim, through the region where the Russian center retreated after the abandonment of Grodno.

Petrograd, Sept. 7.—A semi-official statement asserts the Germans have been checked at practically every point on the battle front. The Russian forces are now under highly favorable conditions with courage for the future unimpaired.

The Teutonic invasion is believed to be on a verge of collapse. Attention now centers in the Dwina river district where the Russians are more than holding their own.

TO GIVE LECTURE ON CHINA

Dr. J. W. Lowe Returned Missionary Worker Will Speak at Baptist Church Tonight.

Dr. J. W. Lowe of Chefoo, North China, will give an illustrated lecture tonight at the First Baptist church which will relate to the present conditions of China and will take up briefly the work done and the progress made during Dr. Lowe's sixteen years residence in that country. No admission will be charged.

Dr. Lowe is here attending the meeting of the Northwest Missouri Baptist association which convened in Maryville today for a three days annual session.

The meeting opened at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church with a good number of delegates present. Many more are expected to arrive late this evening and in the morning.

The introductory sermon was given by Rev. J. C. Midyett and the remainder of the meeting was given over to reports from the various churches. Workers in the denomination from all over the state will take a part in the program.

Worked Sixteen Years in China.

Dr. Lowe arrived in America last spring and expects to remain until about December 1, working in the interests of the Chinese missions and raising funds to further their success in that country.

He is accompanied by his son, Paul Lowe, now a student in William Jewell college. Dr. Lowe is near Gallatin, Mo., and he left here sixteen years ago for Laichowfu, China, to take up work as a missionary worker and teacher sent by the Baptist board of missions. He was accompanied by his wife and she with their younger children have remained in China during this trip to America.

Dr. Lowe's lecture will have to do particularly with the present situation under the rule of the new republic He arrived in China just after the Boxer uprisings and his lecture will begin with the work at that time and will briefly take in the entire trip from the time the missionary left San Francisco until the present. The illustrations will also include scenes through Japan and a trip through Manchuria made on the trans-Siberia railroad as far north as Harbin.

Liverpool, England, Sept. 7.—The Allan line officials here have announced after careful investigation that the Hesperian was not conveyed by warships when torpedoed.

Washington, Sept. 7.—U. S. Consul Frost of Queenstown has cabled the state department that the Hesperian was torpedoed. He said that steel fragments on the ship proved that undoubtedly.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—The sinking of the Hesperian probably will not cause additional complications between the United States and Germany. Secretary of State Lansing has received a long report, but not conclusive that the vessel was torpedoed.

The fact that it was armed also enters into the discussion.

RINGLINGS MAY NOT COME

Superfluity of Dates and Lack of Time Causes Cancellation of Engagement.

The Ringling Brothers circus will not appear in Maryville this season according to tentative notice received in Maryville on account of the short length of time until the circus season ends and superfluity of engagements in the middle west and Indiana yet. It was planned to bring the circus here the latter part of September.

The Ringling shows will probably come no closer to Maryville than Albany, where the circus shows Tuesday, September 21.

A fund with which to pay the county license of $100 and to pay for a site on which the show tents may be installed, has been secured, by the entertainment committee of the Commercial Club.

Maryville has been neglected by the big shows for ten years.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Fort Scott, aKn., Sept. 7.—The worst floods ever known in this vicinity followed intermittent heavy rains all day yesterday and numerous cloud bursts were reported last night. More than six inches of rain fell and the Marmaton and Mill creek are raging torrents weeping over all bridges and flooding low lands.

Belltown, near here, is under several feet of water and hundreds that were marooned are being rescued. House foundations have been weakened and many houses were carried away. No trains are moving.

It is estimated that 500 persons are marooned board stalled trains. All bridges are loaded with engines and freight cars to prevent them from being washed away.

A watchman on the Missouri Pacific reports that he saw six bodies pass under the bridge near the M. K. & T. depot which is under six feet of water. The sun is shining today but the streams are still rising.

Nevada, Mo., reports four inches of rain.

Iola, Kan., Sept. 7.—Cloud bursts early today caused Elm creek to become a raging river a mile wide. It is believed several drowned. Scores are missing and homeless. A dozen houses were wrecked.

The rain has ceased but water is still standing in the city streets from 3 to 10 feet deep. Hundreds of persons can be seen marooned in tree tops over town. Rescue work is proceeding rapidly.

The property damage is estimated at $100,000. Many bridges are out.

TRACTORS AND MULES.

A western agricultural paper reports a conversation with an Illinois farmer, who says that his new farm tractor does the work of ten mules. He adds that it saves an hour a day in chores, a great deal in feed, and relieves him, besides, of the painful necessity of hurrying weary animals when the season is rushing.

All of which is true, and doubtless the farmer might have added that his tractor is enabling him to plow deeper than he ever plowed before. Yet the chief value of this testimony is to show what Henry Ford is likely to accomplish when he gets on the market his tractor adopted to small farms.

The man quoted above has 460 acres of ground, and his machine dispensed with ten mules or horses. The Ford machine, if it comes through according to advance notices, will suit the man with from eighty to 240 acres of ground, and take the place of three or four horses. This light, cheap, adaptable tractor will meet the needs of twenty men where the heavier motor supplies one.

The light farm tractor should double the real productiveness of American farms in a single generation. It will save for human use immense areas now devoted to producting horse feed it will permit and encourage deeper and earlier plowing, it will give the farmer more complete mastery of his work than he ever has enjoyed before. Success to it.—Chicago Journal.

EDITORS TO TAKE BOAT TRIP.

Missouri Newspaper Men to Be Royally Entertained at St. Joseph Sept. 16 and 17.

The program for the annual meeting of the Missouri Press association, at St. Joseph, September 16 and 17, has been completed. President H. S. Sturgis of Neosho, the other officers, the Commercial Club and other civic business organizations in St. Joseph have planned "features" galore.

The Commercial Club of Kansas City will motor the members over the boulevard system in Kansas City, and Walter S. Dickey, president of the Missouri River Navigation Company, has reserved the steamer Chester for an excursion September 18, when the visitors will be en route to their homes.

It is planned for the newspapermen and their families to meet in Kansas City September 16, and go to St. Joseph by interurban trolley cars. On the afternoon of the opening day, guests will be taken to Lake Contrary, where a luncheon will be served by the St. Joseph Press Club.

Motor tours and social events are scheduled for the second day. The big feature will be a banquet at the Robidoux Hotel.

The reunion will attract politicians from all over the state. The organization is nonpartisan, but political aspirants of both the dominant parties will start booms.

CATTLE AND HOGS IN RISE

Kansas City Market Strengthens Past Week Except on Sheep Which Make Big Drop.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.

Kansas City, Sept. 6.—Corn fed cattle advanced 10 to 15 cents last week, and it was evident that buyers needed good cattle. The strong prospects were realized today, when a drove of heavy steers, 1,500 pounds average, sold at $10.10, highest price in several weeks.

Total supply today is 17,000 head, several thousand less than were expected, the decrease partly due to Labor day holiday influence, and partly to disappointing market on medium and half fat cattle last week. The market on medium cattle today is about steady, with a sign of strength.

Stockers and feeders are strong today, a good many buyers here. Kansas shippers are holding cattle back, endeavoring to get better weights on them, the heavy cattle not having gained much on grass this year as usual, and there is some hope for better prices also.

It is even possible that a certain percentage of the Kansas pasture cattle will not come to market at all off the grass, but will go on feed for a time, as there will be a good deal of corn in Kansas this year. The market is in the hands of the shippers to a greater extent than usual this season.

Medium grades of fed steers are steady and sell at $8.25 to $9.25, Kansas pasture steers of good weights at $7.75 to $8.75, light steers $7 to $7.50, grass cows $5.50 to $6.50, stock steers $6.50 to $7.75, a few up to $8.35, feeders at $6.75 to $7.50, a few up to $8.25. Quarantine receipts are only 10 cars today, all mixed stock.

Quarantine steers are selling at $5.75 to $7.75 cows $4.50 to $5.75, veal calves $7.50 to $10.25.

The top was $7.90, 20 cents above the best price last week, and bulk of sales $7.25 to $7.80, 10 to 15 cents higher than any day for some weeks. Packers are in need of hogs, and paid $7.75.

Heavy hogs brought $7.25 to $7.60 largely. Receipts were 5,000 head, and the supply has been running lighter than usual for a week. The market here is being maintained on a level several points above other western markets.

Killing grades of sheep and lambs declined 25 to 50 cents last week, feeders and breeders holding steady. The supply is 16,000 today, market 5 lower on killers, 10 higher on feeders. Top western lambs brought $8.55, and native spring lambs to killers ranged from $8.15 to $8.50.

Five cars of Utah feeding lambs, 60 pounds average, sold at $8.45, other feeders $8.35 and $8.40, feeding ewes $5 to $5.25, breeding ewes $5.50 to $6.75, a few choice breeding ewes up to $7.50, and one lot of fancy black face two year old breeders last week, 99 pounds average, at $7.65. Plenty of feeding and breeding stock will be offered here from now on.

PLAIN JAPANESE AT CORONATION

Persons Outside Court to Witness Mikado Take Throne.

AN IMPRESSIVE CEREMONY.

Precedent of Twenty-five Centuries Will Be Broken by a Public Function—New Emperor Will Eat Sacred Rice Sown, Tended and Harvested by Virgins.

Tokyo.—For the first time in the history of the Japanese empire, extending over 2,500 years, an emperor is to accede to the throne in the presence of representatives of his people. That is why the coronation of Emperor Yoshihito on Nov. 19 is regarded as a supreme event in Japanese national life and why it is looked forward to with such eagerness and delight by the emperor's subjects.

Strictly speaking, the ceremony is not a coronation, but an accession. The rulers of Nippon wear no crown, but in the presence of the spirits of their ancestors they formally accede to the dignity and prerogatives of emperorship. However, the coming great event is usually referred to as the coronation.

The empress expects to become a mother about that time. The emperor doubtless will go alone to Kioto with great pomp, carrying with him in a specially constructed train of exquisite workmanship and decoration the three sacred treasures which symbolize the authority and power of the throne—the sacred mirror, the sacred sword and the comma shaped jewel.

Religious services will be held in the Shunkyoden temple, where the gorgeous throne will be placed and where will be witnessed a rare spectacle of court nobles and priests in the ancient picturesque ceremonial robes. The foreign representatives will be ushered to their seats by the sound of flutes and drums. The doors of the sanctuary where the sacred mirror is placed will be opened and offerings spread before the altar. Then the emperor, preceded by the lord chamberlain and minister of the household carrying the sword and gem, will enter, followed by the princes of the blood, ministers of state and the members of the coronation commission. After a moment of silence the emperor will go to the altar and read an address proclaiming to the spirits of his ancestors that he has received the sacred treasures and that he then and there ascends the throne, the seat of the "Son of Heaven." The princes and princesses of the blood and other Japanese in their turn will pay homage.

At the second ceremony, to be held in the Shishiden palace, Emperor Yoshihito will announce to his subjects his accession to the throne. Members of both houses, local governors and other persons representing the people, will be present at this function, as well as the members of the diplomatic corps. In striking contradistinction to the last coronation, which was conducted entirely and exclusively in the presence of the court, in the coming ceremonies not only the people and representatives of foreign powers, but even a delegation of chiefs from the native tribes of Formosa will be present. This last is the idea of Premier Okuma, who wishes, while preserving the dignity and sanctity of the ceremonies, to bring in the note of democracy and popular representation.

The Daijosai or thanksgiving festivals, will take place in the Daij temples. There are two—the Yuki temple, dedicated to the deities of heaven, and the Suki, dedicated to the deities of earth. In these sacred precincts the emperor, alone and unseen, will eat of the sacred rice, sown, tended and harvested by virgins in the eastern and western provinces. In each case the emperor will bathe in sacred water, after which, donning special robes, he will pray successively before the heavenly and earthly deities, offering up thanks for his glorious and happy accession.

MAY IRWIN BACKS WILSON.

Wants Cabinet Post to Laugh His Detractors Out of Court.

New York.—May Irwin fills no position in President Wilson's cabinet, which precludes her reprimanding those she thinks talk too much, but as a suffragist who campaigned ardently for the president she feels privileged to stand up for him. So she sent a letter to President Wilson which said, among other things:

"In these times, when our beloved country is facing the most crucial problems of its history, you have shown yourself as great a patriot and statesman as ever held the executive office.

"But as usual there are some agitators and self seekers who for the sake of notoriety are attempting to handicap the work of the president, even to the extent of hurling this nation into the bloodiest war of all history. I am only a humble almost citizen, but I think it the duty of every woman, child or man to encourage you with a direct approval of your course; hence this letter.

"I would like to see a new department added to the government, to be known as the department of laughter. The function of it should be to laugh out of court these fools and self seekers, these pests and jingoes who are trying to annoy you in your work. The rulers of old had their Sir Motleys and jesters for just such a purpose. I respectfully apply for the portfolio of this department on the supposition that I know a good laugh when I see one."

Up to the hour of going to press the good submarine Oyster Bay had not even shown its periscope preparatory to firing an answering broadside.

Lexington, Ky.—Four elderly and infirm persons are the only occupants of the immensely valuable Shaker settlement, one of the few remaining colonies of the sect, near here. Sisters Christine Johnson, eighty-four, and Martha Olson, eighty-seven, died one day recently within the hour.

Shakertown, now so sparsely settled once was a flourishing town, with manufactories and various business enterprises and controlling rich adjacent farm lands.

Even now the property is valued at millions. Recently a trustee was appointed to manage the affairs of the colonists.

ORVILLE WRIGHT TO QUIT THE WORKSHOP

Aeroplane Inventor Will Devote Life to Research Work.

Dayton, O.—Orville Wright, the aeroplane inventor and manufacturer, is to devote his life to research work, giving up his business interests.

The inventor for years has had the ambition to develop and amplify his research work, but since the death of his brother Wilbur several years ago his time has been taken up almost entirely by the management of his business and patent litigation. In the last week two offers have been made for the Wright holdings here, but without success.

Mr. Wright refused to make public any offers he has received, but Dayton bankers say substantial sums and credits were concerned.

"I cannot say now how soon this change will come about or give any details of how or why it will be made," said Mr. Wright.

It is said Mr. Wright's health is poor and he is in a nervous condition. Confronted with this as a possible motive for selling the plant, he still refused to reveal his intentions further.

"I never was interested especially in the business end of it," said Mr. Wright. "I am not averse to making money from it. But that is not what I am striving for.

"My patent litigation is going favorably, both in the United States and abroad. The court of appeals has sustained the decision of lower courts in every instance, and there is a little further work along those lines.

"I have not gone into the war game as other aeroplane manufacturers have. The trouble has been in getting a high powered aeroplane motor that is reliable. They are pretty delicate things, but I am working on a new 120 horsepower engine which I have not put on the market."

Concerning the New York newspaper story in which it was said the German government held an option on the Wright plant, Mr. Wright had an explanation to make.

"The story is an untruth. I know that it was based merely on a suggestion that the German government get an option on this company. Some one thought it would be a good scheme for the Germans to buy the Wright company and prevent other countries from getting any machines. A letter to that effect was written to the German consul at New York, and from that source the story emanated."

CLINTON IS NOW "DRY."

Rich Hill Only "Wet" Town in Sixth District.—It Follows Jan. 1.

Clinton is the latest Missouri town to go "dry." It "went" that way Saturday night. The town voted "dry" by a majority of 226 votes at a special election July 23. Twice before within the last ten years the "dry" sentiment was nullified at the polls.

The only remaining saloon in the Sixth Congressional District is in Rich Hill, and that, too, will close its doors January 1, pursuant to the will of the voters, expressed by a majority of ninety at the polls last Wednesday. The Sixth District is composed of Henry, Johnson, Cass, Bates, Cedar, Dade and St. Clair counties.

Mr. Carl Murren,
Maryville, Mo.

Dear Sir: We manage to get some fun out of paint. J. H. Kohlmeyer, Grove City, Pa, put-in Devoe. Along came a salesman of somebody else's paint before ours had got there. Salesman said ours was short-measure. Kohlmeyer weakened, hung-fire and flopped; stopped ours and took his.

It was our turn now. We emptied our can into his and his into ours. The short-measure was his, not ours; and we kept our man.

And, ever since then, that paint-manufacturer gives full-measure; his paint is not pure, but his gallon contains four quarts.

Go by the name; and the name to go by is Devoe lead-and-zinc.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO.,
New York, Chicago and Kansas City.

P. S.—Koch's Pharmacy sells our paint.

W. D. McDowell of Kansas City, was here last week to visit his sister, Mrs. George Cox and family, northwest of Maryville and to also visit the fair.

Taking Care of Friendship.

"We take care of our health, we lay up money, we make our roof tight and our clothing sufficient, but who provides wisely that we shall not be wanting in the best property of all—friends?" asks Emerson.

"It was such a trifle," sighed a woman, referring to an estrangment from a friend of girlhood days, "yet it led to the bitterest quarrel. The friendship we had cherished since childhood was severed in a moment by a few hasty words over a subject which did not matter vitally to either of us. We were too angry then to see how slight the matter was, to realize the consequences. Neither of us was willing to acknowledge at the time that she was at fault, so the rift widened and, although we meet and treat each other politely, the old sweet friendship of years has gone forever. No one knows how deeply I regret it."

Friendships die of neglect, as well as by violence. It is well known that we fail to appreciate our blessings until we lose them. How often is this so with friendships? We do not miss them until the dear old friends have left us. We do not realize their loss and our loneliness until it is too late.

For close, heart-to-heart friends, there must be effort on the part of each to keep up the old friendship amid the changes of the passing years. Friendship is a twofold affair. It cannot be maintained by one alone. There must be effort, reciprocation on the part of each.—The Continent.

STARVE THE HESSIAN

Here is a receipe for putting the Hessian fly out of business that is guaranteed by the College of Agriculture of the University of Missouri to be as effective as it is simple.

1. Bury the flies.—Plow soon after harvest as deeply as conditions will permit. Most of the insects are now in the flaxseed or resting stage, down at the crown of the old wheat plants between the leaf sheath and the stalk. Plowing will destroy them. A harow or dics should follow the plow to compact the soil.

2. Destroy the Volunteer Wheat.—Cultivate the plowed ground during the late summer and early fall to destroy the volunteer wheat and weeds. Volunteer wheat provides breeding and feeding grounds for the full crop of flies. Keep it down and avoid one common source of fly infestation.

3. Sow On or Soon After Fly-Free Date.—Sow the wheat just as late as advisable to have it up and established before winter. Prepare the seed bed thoroughly and when this is done the wheat may be sown much later without danger from winter killing. The fly free date or dates of safe sowing are approximately as follows: For the northern third of Missouri, October 1; for the central third of the state, October 8, and for the southern third, October 16. It will be noticed that the dates of safe sowing become later as we go southward. Farmers should therefore make their wheat sowings conform as nearly as possible to the dates suited to their locations in the different parts of the state.

4. Get Your Neighbors to Cooperate. Cooperation is essential especially during bad fly years. If one negligent or careless farmer sows his wheat early or fails to destroy the volunteer wheat, he may have enough flies in his wheat next spring to not only destroy his own wheat crop, but to also destroy the wheat crops of all his neighbors, although they may have practiced all the remedies mentioned above.

"Catching" Tuberculosis, or Infection.

TO the man who works for his living, falling sick with tuberculosis means a very real danger not only to his own life but to the lives of his wife and children as well. His wealthier neighbor may lay aside his routine cares and "take the cure" for tuberculosis without materially affecting his family's health or income. The consumptive workingman, on the other hand, must give up his job and with it his only income, and at the same time he is frequently compelled to remain at home, a constant source of danger to his family, unless he is properly instructed. It may save you who read this article considerable money and suffering if you learn from it how to avoid the entrance of tuberculosis into your body.

Tuberculosis is infectious and communicable from one person to another. It differs in some respects from scarlet fever, measles, or smallpox, so-called "contagious" diseases, in that tuberculosis requires repeated exposures and certain special conditions to pass the germs from the sick to the well. It is not inherited, but must be communicated through one of the following sources from one person to another:

(1) The infection is derived in the very large majority of cases from the sputum discharged from "open" or ulcerating tubercles in the lungs.

(2) A certain number of persons, chiefly infants, estimated variously from one to ten per cent. of all cases, receive the infection from the milk of tuberculous cows.

(3) A very few others may possibly obtain the infection from the urine and fecal discharges of consumptives or from the pus joints or other parts of the body which are the seat of ulcerating tuberculosis.

(4) In a few extremely rare instances the infection is conveyed through the blood of the mother to an unborn child, but the offspring seldom survive long.

(5) No infection can be conveyed from tuberculosis of the "closed" or non-ulcerated variety, or after ulcerations are completely healed.

With regard to the manner of infection, still bearing in mind that tuberculosis must be communicated from one person to another, we find that by far the most frequent mode of infection is by inhalation; the second is by swallowing, and the least common, by inoculation of a wound or abrasion. Considering each of these modes of infection a little more carefully, we learn that:

(1) The baccilli are inhaled most often in dust. The dust is most often contaminated by careless spitting; but the germs may also be given out in the act of coughing (with the mouth unprotected) or hawking, sneezing, loud talking, singing or laughing. Quiet breathing carries no infection.

(2) The baccilli may be swallowed with food which has been contaminated with infected hands or otherwise, and also with the milk, butter and other dairy products derived from cows suffering from bovine tuberculosis.

(3) Inoculation by the infection of cuts, scratches, or abrasions is not frequently observed.

While no age, race, or class is immune against infection from tuberculosis, children are more susceptible than anyone else. At the age of 15, frequently as high as 75 per cent. of the population may show the presence of the germs, though not that many may be sick with tuberculosis. In view, however, of the fact that these germs may lay quiet in the body of the child for years, until with unfavorable surroundings his resistance is lowered, causing the disease to develop, it is extremely important that fathers and mothers do everything possible to keep their children away from danger of infection in their earlier years.

Everything should be done at home to keep the child rugged and healthy. The father and mother, whether they have tuberculosis or not, should be scrupulosly careful in their habits of spitting and person hygiene. The working father owes it not only to his own health, but to that of his children to avoid tuberculosis in every possible way.

[NOTE—This is the Second of a Series of Five Articles Prepared by The National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis, New York City.]

STRIKING GAINS IN CHILD LABOR LAWS

Off Year For Legislation, but Children Not Neglected.

EDUCATION LAWS IN SOUTH.

A new compilation of child labor laws which will be issued shortly by the National Child Labor Committee contains the legislation enacted in 1915. Although this last year was a reactionary one for social welfare legislation, the National Child Labor Committee feels that there were some striking gains in child labor laws.

Two states which have hitherto defied all efforts to raise their standards—Pennsylvania and Alabama—have yielded to the pressure of public opinion. Alabama has a fourteen year limit for all gainful occupations, to go into effect in September, 1916, instead of her former twelve year limit for factories only. A sixteen year limit for dangerous occupations is included in the law, as well as a twelve year limit for boys and an eighteen year limit for girls in street work.

The striking feature of Pennsylvania's new law is the continuation school clause, which requires children of fourteen and fifteen who are regularly employed to attend continuation schools eight hours a week. Other important features are the twenty-one year limit for night messengers, physical examination and the completion of the sixth grade before a work permit can be secured, and the regulation of street work.

Michigan had an unusual experience. The age limit for common gainful occupations was raised from fourteen to fifteen AT THE REQUEST OF THE EMPLOYERS. The bill was drafted and the campaign directed by them. In addition to raising the age limit, it raises the grade which a child must complete before a work permit can be secured from the fourth to the sixth grade.

Compulsory education laws were passed by three southern states. The Florida and South Carolina laws are local option only, but the Texas law is state wide.

California and Iowa strengthened their laws by including provisions for the regulation of street work and the night messenger service. In addition to the street work clause Iowa passed an eight hour day for children under sixteen and strengthened her work permit provisions. A written statement from the employer, saying that he intends to employ the child, is now necessary before a child can secure a work permit. A similar clause was incorporated this year in the Rhode Island law and a street work provision enacted establishing a twelve year limit for boys and a sixteen year limit for girls engaged in selling newspapers or merchandise.

Nevada created the office of labor commissioner to enforce the child labor law, and Wyoming enacted a nine hour day for children under fourteen in all gainful occupations. In fact, there was a gain in every state but one of those which passed laws this year affecting children. Tennessee weakened its law by exempting canneries from practically all provisions of the law. But an attempt to repeal the Arkansas law was defeated, so that, on the whole the National Child Labor Committee feels that the child labor legislation of 1915 represents steady progress.

VI.—F. C. Howe

On The Advantages of Free Ports

Mr. F. C. Howe, Federal Commissioner of Immigration, who is one of the best American authorities on marine commerce, in discussing the relation of free ports to the development of sea trade said in part:

"Ships will go hundreds of miles out of their way to avoid ports surrounded by a tariff wall. The only way, therefore, for a country with a tariff to compete in the shipping world with a free trade country is to establish free ports at strategical points along its coast line. Germany has done so, and in a comparatively short period has built up a carrying trade which before the war was seriously threatening England's supremacy. Hamburg, one of the three German free ports, now ranks as the second greatest seaport in the world, its total foreign commerce in 1913 being only $6,000,000 under that of New York.

The free port would offer great opportunity for financial operations, now made possible by the recent currency act. It would stimulate international banking, and would tend to shift the financial center of the world to this country. And America, by the logic of events, has become the natural center for the world's financing, just as London became that center several centuries ago, when it shifted from the cities of the Netherlands. But the financial center will only move to this country when it becomes a clearing house of goods as well as of money. For credit the world over is created by currently created wealth in transit or change so that even our financial expansion is dependent upon the opening up of American ports to the clearance of the wealth of the world. A port should not operate to yield a return on the investment, but to develop the prosperity of the country." In recapitulating the advantages, Mr. Howe brings out the importance of the free port in developing our shipping, and linking us with South America, Asia and Africa, and then concludes:

"The most important gain is the direct gain to America. It will cheapen commodities by bringing great quantities of goods to our doors for importation or export, as trade needs demand. It will stimulate the growth of exporting houses, which can hold goods for an indefinite period without the payment of tariff dues (often equal to the cost of the article itself) for disposal to meet the trade demands of the whole world. It will upbuild international credit, and shift to America an increasing and ultimately a predominant share in international exchange.

Finally, America is the natural country to be the counter of the world. Its seacoasts face every other continent; it is the greatest of all reservoirs of raw materials and foodstuffs. In iron and steel and standardized production it is in a position to compete with the world. But international trade (and this is always overlooked) must be reciprocal. It cannot be one-sided, and credit balances cannot for any prolonged period be paid in gold. They can only be paid by exchange of wealth."

FLASH NEWS TO FAROFF SAILORS

Uncle Sam's Boys Find Joy In Baseball Scores.

VIA THE NAVAL WIRELESS.

Secretary Daniels Arranges For 200 Word Message Every Evening to Warships In West Indies—Captain Bullard, Superintendent of Naval Radio Service, Conceived the Idea.

Washington.—Even the oldest inhabitant of Port-au-Prince, Haiti, can't remember the time before now when the Haitian tropics received the baseball scores every evening.

Somehow one doesn't associate the thought of the blue Caribbean and scorching semi-equatorial sunshine with the thought of "New York, 4; Pittsburgh, 6." But it's an actual fact, just the same.

Not only baseball scores, but the latest word about the kaiser and the war and William Jennings Bryan's latest opinion penetrate the tropical evenings. The officers and men of Uncle Sam's warships in West Indian waters are now able to learn of the things going on at home and abroad.

Secretary Daniels worked the scheme through the innate patriotism of a telegraph company and a big press association. Let there be no more talk of soulless corporations, says the navy.

Every night the day's news is boiled down to 200 words—just as it should be, some one says—and is telegraphed to the naval wireless station at Key West, Fla. Then the wireless sparks begin to jump, and out over the gulf, the Caribbean and the south Atlantic flashes the news "from home."

Captain W. H. G. Bullard, superintendent of the naval radio service, is the man who conceived the idea, and through his suggestion Secretary Daniels obtained the co-operation of the news agency and the telegraph company. Only officers and sailors who are thousands of miles from home, in strange waters by strange shores, can fully appreciate the value of a service of this kind.

The men are more interested in the baseball scores of the National and American leagues than in any other point of the day's news. The latest boiler explosion west of Pittsburgh, however, gets their avid interest.

The naval radio service looks upon the idea as a great development of its resources. For several years the service has been sending out the official Washington time through the Arlington (Va.) station and the radio station at Darien, in the canal zone. This time flash has been sent broadcast over the continental United States, neighborhood waters and distant American dependencies.

Not long ago some 300 jewelers informed Secretary Daniels that they had equipped themselves with radio apparatus just to catch this twice daily time flash from Washington. Time signals are said to be of immense benefit to vessels on the high seas, which now possess for the first time an accurate means of checking their chronometers, which is of the greatest help in fixing longitude.

As soon as the new wireless section in the Philippines is completed it is believed that an interchange of messages between the Philippines and the United States can be made in thirty minutes.

The news bulletin service is regarded as of still greater importance as an advance in the naval radio service. It contrasts strongly, old officers say, with the methods of only thirty years ago, when naval vessels on distant duty never got news from home except when the relief vessel arrived and they received orders to go home and freshen up on events.
